Access: Open for Research

Date Processed: began in 1980s, ongoing as new materials are collected.

Arrangement: This collection is arranged according to physical location and divided into three series: Cabinet G, Cabinet H, and Boxes. The majority of the collection resides in Filing Cabinets G&H, while new additions to the collection are stored in boxes. Within each location-based series, items are grouped by publication and arranged chronologically within their folders. This collection continues to grow as the college continues to create published materials.

Historical Note: SCCC has self-published a multitude of different literature since the founding in 1969. From student handbooks and course catalogs to student literary magazines like "Rhythms" or student newspapers like the "Van Curler" and newsletters like the "Binnekill," all of these publications paint a portrait of life on SCCC's campus.

Scope/Content Note: This collection contains publications produced by SCCC for both informational and entertainment value. It contains all of the college handbooks from 1969 to the present day, as well as student literary magazines, student handbooks, and student newspapers. There are also samples of the alumni newsletter and circulars produced by the continuing education department. This collection also contains commencement programs from the first commencement in 1971 through to the present day. This collection only contains materials self-published by the college, and does not include faculty publications that have been published through journals or book publishing companies (see "Faculty Publications" collection for these materials).
